PREFACE.

THE following chapters will be recognised by many little friends in London, as having been addressed to them on Lord's day afternoons, during the present year.

They are now sent forth in this more permanent form, in the hope that they will prove interesting and useful to others also.

May many dear young readers be favoured to possess the 'precious things' named in these pages.

LONDON, November 1, 1885.

PRECIOUS THINGS.

'The precious things of the earth and fulness thereof, and the good will of Him that dwelt in the bush.'—
Deut. xxxiii. 16.

THE earth which God has made is full of beauty. All His works reflect His glory, and speak His praise. We cannot at any time walk among the works of God in creation without seeing abundant proof all around us of His power, and goodness, and wisdom. It was infinite goodness, no less than almighty power, that sprinkled heaven with stars, and earth with flowers. Those glittering clusters of worlds above us tell us of our Maker's care for us, and remind us of His kindness as well as of His greatness. And the green carpet on which we tread, dotted
