

THE ELECTORATE AND THE
LEGISLATURE; THE ENGLISH
CITIZEN: HIS RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649541294

The Electorate and the Legislature; The English Citizen: His Rights and Responsibilities by Spencer Walpole

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd.
Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

SPENCER WALPOLE

THE ELECTORATE AND THE
LEGISLATURE; THE ENGLISH
CITIZEN: HIS RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The Electorate and the Legislature

JN
508
.W 22

THE ENGLISH CITIZEN:
HIS RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry should be supported by a valid receipt or invoice. This not only helps in tracking expenses but also ensures compliance with tax regulations.

In the second section, the author provides a detailed breakdown of the monthly budget. It includes categories such as housing, utilities, food, and transportation. Each category is further divided into sub-items, allowing for a granular view of where the money is being spent.

The third section focuses on investment strategies. It explores various options, from traditional stocks and bonds to more innovative assets like real estate and private equity. The author discusses the risks and potential returns associated with each, providing a balanced perspective on portfolio management.

Finally, the document concludes with a series of recommendations for long-term financial success. It stresses the importance of staying informed, diversifying investments, and maintaining a disciplined approach to saving and spending. The author encourages readers to regularly review their financial plans and adjust them as needed to reflect changing circumstances.

2075

THE ELECTORATE
AND
THE LEGISLATURE

BY
SPENCER WALPOLE
AUTHOR OF "THE HISTORY OF ENGLAND FROM 1815"

London
MACMILLAN AND CO.
1881

The Right of Translation and Reproduction is Reserved

LONDON:
E. CLAY, SONS, AND TAYLOR,
BREAD STREET HILL, E.C.

PREFACE

A WRITER who professes to describe "the electorate and legislature" of the United Kingdom is necessarily forced to travel over many chapters of the constitutional history of England. In doing so he has the advantage of clear guidance. The constitutional history of England to the reign of Henry VII. has been written by Mr. Stubbs; from the accession of Henry VII. to the death of George II. by Mr. Hallam; from the accession of George III. to the present time by Sir Erskine May. But the English Constitution has also been described by De Lolme and Lord Russell in former generations and by Mr. Freeman and Mr. Bagehot in our own time. The precedents of proceedings in the House of Commons were collected more than sixty years ago by Mr. Hatsall. The law and practice of Parliament has been described in recent years by Sir Erskine May.

Independent researches, made for a larger object, have also enabled the author of this book to add to some extent to the information which is thus accessible to the ordinary student. But he desires, on the first page of the work, to acknowledge the debt under which he lies to the authorities whom he has already named. The acknowledgment is the more necessary because in a little book of this character it is impossible to give the references which would be inserted in a larger work. To all the authorities he has named he is under an obligation; to three of them—Mr. Hallam, Mr. Stubbs, and Sir Erskine May, he is specially indebted. Sir Erskine May's work on Parliamentary Practice is the substructure on which every writer on Parliament must build. The great works of Mr. Hallam and Mr. Stubbs are too well known to require a compliment; but they are possibly susceptible to a criticism. Mr. Hallam's labours have perhaps done more than Mr. Stubbs's researches to give the general reader a clear idea of constitutional progress, but Mr. Stubbs's work has done more to assist the student than Mr. Hallam's history. Mr. Hallam excels in manner, Mr. Stubbs in matter: Mr. Hallam is superior to Mr. Stubbs in his generalisations; Mr. Stubbs to Mr. Hallam in the copiousness of his details.

LONDON, June, 1881.

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I.		PAGE
PARLIAMENT . . . . .		1
CHAPTER II.
THE HOUSE OF LORDS . . . . .		25
CHAPTER III.
THE HOUSE OF COMMONS . . . . .		47
CHAPTER IV.
PARLIAMENTARY QUALIFICATION AND ELECTORAL CORRUPTION . . . . .		67
CHAPTER V.
PREMOGATIVE AND PRIVILEGE . . . . .		90