P R E F A C E .

I SALUTE the public in a second volume, extending the philosophy of the first into a deeper and more mysterious domain. I can make no apology to the reader, nor extenuation whatever. If he is profited by the perusal of these pages, let him praise the real authors, and not the labors of one who, like himself, is taught by them; if he blames and is disgusted, not on me, but on the invisible authors, the censure falls. In my humble sphere I have toiled, not to introduce my own thoughts,* but to receive those of higher intelligences as purely and truthfully as possible, and transmit them to the consideration of those who may be attracted to my pages. That such attraction may prove a source of profit, noble and true thoughts be inculcated, and that this volume may not be without influence for goodness and truth, is my earnest prayer.

* I have introduced a few passages, but have carefully included them in brackets, as I have no desire to confound their authorship with that of the volume.
