Just a Word

YOU have this little volume before you as a result of the knocks received by the author while he was qualifying to be stamped as a college man. The incidents as here set down have been favorably received in the form of informal talks to young men. Therefore these letters may be of interest to freshmen and also give them a lift on their way.

Further, father, mother and sister may desire to see a thing or two about college besides the commencement exercises. They are welcome as is the graduate who wishes to see how college of today compares with that of yesterday.
