A Star Song.

I

MERCURY.

Who is this that looketh forth
With the beauty of the morning,
And the brightness of his birth Laughs my herald light to scorning, Like new day between the darkness and the dawning?

MARS.

Who is this to whom I yield
At his glory's far-seen shimmer,
And my sanguine-circled shield Fades before him, dim and dimmer, Swooning deathward as a torrent-thwarted swimmer?

JUPITER.

Who is this, whose light, like foam,
Blinds mine eyelids, sight impeding, From whose ray comes covering home
Eagle knowledge, downward speeding Like a sea-gull into storm-torn waves receding?

SATURN.

Who is this from whom I wane,
I, a hermit pale and hoary, Dreaming o'er my thought's domain,
I, the crownless king of story,
And my gray shape sinks unscathed in his glory?

THE MORNING STAR.

I am Love, and sit as God
On my silver morn-star singing;
At my music poured abroad,
Every star, his censer swinging, Strews the darkness with sweet echoes ever ringing.

II

Where the Moon makes her nest
In the bed of the waning West, And her veil of thin light through heaven is no more uplifted,
We, sons of the starry morn,
Out of darkness born,
To the strand of still Night like showers of her pearl are drifted,— Gems from her quarried azure aglow, Eddying flakes from her endless snow, Gold grain on Time's threshing-floor, by the fan of his tempest winnowed and sifted.

Lo, the Moon sinks dim
As a bead on a goblet's rim, Whence the feaster has drained the last spark of its life resplendent;
And the sky's deep cup, down-turned,
With light unadorned, Hangs hollow, injewelled with stars, above earth impendent;
And into the vessel of darkness flow
The shadows borne hither from earth below,— A stairway stretching to heaven for Death and the angels on Death attendant.

As a meadow-born mist
Which the cloud-shaping Sun hath kissed, Melts earthward in showers whose many rich hues commingle,
So the thoughts that from man aspire Float up through our lyre And mix and flow back from our consonant chords atingle,
And the sigh sent hither that seemed in vain
Returns like the sound of a spring-tide rain; For heaven and earth are one world, where none lives alone, and nothing is single.

When Life plants the thorn Where its roses no more are born, And dark is the way, and the spirit is weary with searching, Men look unto us and live Through the power that we give,
 And strong grow their steps to the sound of our measured marching,
 And we shine like silver cells inwrought In the dome that bends over God's own thought,
 Strong-pillared in Love, lifted high as Love's self, in its infinite overarching.

III

Oh, the music that rings
 From our harp of unnumbered strings When that Hand is spread forth which spans all the starry spaces!
 When o'er us the world's great Soul
 Is breathed, as the roll Of a lengthening wave down the shores loud-echoing places;
 Then we sink as shells in the tide, we fill With the music and might of Love's deep will,
 As we sing of the yet unharvested hopes for the far earth's happy races.

Aloft and alone,
 All orbs are the wheels of thy throne.
 What space can contain thee, O Life that livest for ever, O Light beyond lights of the morn,
 On whose tides we are borne,
 As we drink of thy drainless heart as out of a river?
 Yet the least of the stars beneath thy feet
 Is the home of thy Son, and Love's own seat, At whose rise both twilight skies melt away in the smiles from his love-stored quiver.
 O bringer of dawn
 And of dusk to a world overworn!

Sweet star, twice-named and twice-loved, of morn and of even,
 Thou leadest our planet throng
 In the choral song With thy prelude string to the strings of the starry seven;
 And the hushed skies listen, and back there rolls,
 Like a chant from a blessed chorus of souls,
 The low sweet thunder of answering harps through the deeps and the heights of heaven.

IV

When Night goes abroad, Assembling her senate for God, Thou kindest thy song as a torch, and goest before us;
 And when the winter nights wane,
 Thou recallest our train, And lightest us home with the banners of morning spread o'er us.
 Thou openest our house, and we shine as kings;
 Thou shuttest the door, and the daylight springs,
 O Love! the first and the last, thou rereward and van of the starry chorus.
 All wisdom and worth,
 All lights and loves upon earth,
 All shapes that are born from our moods go hence or come hither,
 And angels, and Gods of the sky
 Grow old and then die, Born into new life, caught upward we know not whither, — Yea, the stars feel the autumn's hand and fade,
 By the breath of the spoiler disarrayed; But thine, O Love, is unwasted strength, and the lights of thy crown cannot wither.
