PREFATORY NOTE

THE present work was finished provisionally early in July 1910, but insertions have been made later in Chapters VI., VII., and VIII. These are the result of suggestions by Dr. Sutherland Black, who very kindly pointed out to me some literature which had appeared after the book was written, or to which I had not given adequate attention. For these suggestions, which I think have enabled me considerably to improve the development of my positions, I wish to offer my best thanks. For the positions themselves I am responsible.
