ADVERTISEMENT.

THESE LESSONS in Homer, which comprise the whole of the First Book of the Iliad, have been taken out of the Author's 'Second Easy Greek Reading Book' in order that they may appear in a more handy form and at a lower price. Lines 1-171 have full notes and a Vocabulary to each Lesson. Lines 172-363 have full notes and General Vocabulary. Lines 364-611 have no notes, but the various difficulties are explained in the General Vocabulary at the end of the Volume. The whole of the Book has also been printed without notes at the beginning, that it may be used up at class without the help which the notes give.

PREFACE.

MANY MASTERS who are teaching, and many boys who are beginning to learn, 'Homer' will be glad of the help of some easy notes. Perhaps there is no book, with its peculiarities, which a boy at first finds so difficult as 'Homer'; but many of these difficulties should vanish after he has been carefully through the First Book with the explanations afforded by the Notes and Vocabularies of the present volume.

The Author offers this Book to Teachers with much confidence, and with the belief that it will be free from errors of any importance, as it has passed through the hands of the same kind and able friends * who have corrected the proofs of his other Books. He would also own his obligations to Paley's 'Homer,' which has been largely referred to.

The Author is now engaged with 'Selections from the Best Latin Authors,' with easy notes, as in his former books, but without Vocabularies. This will form a Reading Book for the Fourth Form of our Public Schools.
