PREFACE TO THE FOURTEENTH EDITION.

As this little book has had the good fortune to retain its popularity for twelve years, during which time it has appeared in thirteen editions, with a total of fifty-eight thousand copies, it has seemed only fair to its future readers to make it advance with the times. It has, therefore, been completely revised, in the light of the valuable original work that has of late years been carried out in respect to the original records of Australian history. Where errors have in the course of years been observed, they have been corrected. Where the information supplied has been found somewhat meagre, it has been amplified. The insertion of a number of authentic engravings will lend it an additional value, it is hoped, for school purposes.
