LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

FROM DRAWINGS BY REGINALD B. BIRCH

	PAGE
"She laid her doll, Emily, across her knees, and put her face down upon her, and her arms around her, and sat there, not saying one word, not making one sound,"	Frontispiece
"She slowly advanced into the parlor, clutching her doll,"	11
"Eat it," said Sara, "and you will not be so hungry,"	39
"He was waiting for his Master to come out to the carriage, and Sara stopped and spoke a few words to him,"	47
"The monkey seemed much interested in her remarks,"	61
"He drew her small, dark head down upon his knee and stroked her hair,"	81
"There she is," they would cry,	89
It was Aunt Clotilde, who had sunk forward while kneeling at prayer,	97

	PAGE
The villagers did not stand in awe of her,	103
"Uncle Bertrand," said the child, clasping her hands,	109
"Why is it that you cry?" she asked gently,	125
Her strength deserted her—she fell upon her knees in the snow,	131
"Why," exclaimed Fairyfoot, "I'm surprised,"	147
"What's the matter with the swine?" he asked,	159
Almost immediately they found themselves in a beautiful little dell,	165
Fairyfoot loved her in a moment, and he knelt on one knee,	181
"There's the cake," he said,	207
"Eh! Eh!" he said, "What! What! Who's this, Tootsiccums?"	225
