FOREWORD.

THE within Sunday evening sermon lectures were given by the author in the First Church of Christ, Brooklyn, N. Y., in the spring of 1902. Through the wide circulation given them by the city dailies and the Associated Press many have requested that they be given a permanent form. This was no part of the author's plan when the lectures were given. As stated by one of our city dailies, it was my plan to see young men and women and the home and the church through the eyes of our young people. With this object in view, and with the aid of Miss May Whaley (our Pastoral Helper) and other members of the congregation, questions as given at the beginning of each lecture in the body of the book, were sent out to young people all over our country and England and Canada. The questions were also printed and circulated freely among the members of our own congregation. The responses were more liberal than I had expected. In the hope of helping these and other young people in the reading public this volume is sent forth.
