A History of Rome

FOR YOUNG PERSONS.

No attempt has been made in this work to introduce new theories, or to controvert generally received historical statements; our standard historians have been followed; and the object which the writer has had in view has been to make such an abridgment or epitome of longer works, as would not be tedious to the youthful mind.

INTRODUCTION.

WILLIAM. Papa, you told me what I wanted to know about the Noble Army of Martyrs: will you tell me something about the Holy Church?

MR. HERBERT. What is it which you wish me to explain?

WILLIAM. I do not quite understand the meaning of "The holy Church throughout all the world doth acknowledge Thee:" will you please to tell us what it means?

MR. HERBERT. Would you like me to ex-
