PREFACE

The following, copied from the preface of Volume I of this Record, will explain itself:—

"The method of arranging and numbering the names has been adopted as the simplest for reference, and at the same time will allow additional facts to be published in succeeding volumes without interfering with the present enumeration."

The numbers will continue consecutively through each succeeding volume, every name bearing a number for future reference, as: "Jonathan Robinson (842), son of John Robinson (841); Thomas Macy (851)," etc.

This Record commends itself to all the various patriotic and hereditary societies whose members trace their ancestry to those who participated in the Revolutionary War, and other important events of our country. Every successive generation, with its biography and portraiture, becoming an additional branch of the family tree, and by the addition of new names (with references to their ancestors published in preceding parts) it will be easy for any person to trace his ancestry through all the various branches, both male and female, of the earliest settler or immigrant to this country, or even to ancestors who resided in Europe; it therefore becomes indispensable, imperishable, and invaluable to every possessor.

(843) NOAH ROBINSON.

Son of Jonathan Robinson (842) and Mercy Chase. Born in Stratham, N. H., 7 May, 1757. Married, first, Nancy Wigginn (844); second, Elizabeth Walker Osborne (845), in Portsmouth, N. H., May, 1805; third, Rosamond Taylor.

Noah Robinson enlisted as Private about May, 1775, in the Second New Hampshire Regiment, commanded by Colonel Enoch Poor; promoted to Corporal and Sergeant in 1775; Ensign and Second Lieutenant in 1776; First Lieutenant in 1777; Captain-Lieutenant in 1779. He was in the battle of Trenton, New Jersey, 26 December, 1776, where over nine hundred Hessians were made prisoners; in the battle of Princeton, New Jersey, 3 January, 1777; in the first battle at Saratoga, New York (no doubt intended for the first engagement at Stillwater, 15 September, 1777), where he was severely wounded and sent to the hospital. Being in the hospital several months, he sufficiently recovered so as to join his regiment. He was in the battle of Monmouth, New Jersey, 12 June, 1778, when he was so overcome by the prevailing excessive heat that his health was impaired to such a degree as to prevent labor without great pain. Upon the reorganization of the army, in 1781, he became a supernumerary, and returned home. Soon after return from the army, 1781, he married Nancy Wiggitt (844), of Stratham, N. H. In 1782 he joined the privateer Bucanier as Commander of Marines, and made a cruise to the English Channel, which was very successful. About 1794 he moved from Stratham to Epping. In 1789-90 he settled in New Hampton and built the Homestead (see engraving) in the nineties. Died in New Hampton, N. H., 10 February, 1827.
