EASY-CHAIR MEMORIES AND RAMBLING NOTES

Published @ 2017 Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd

ISBN 9780649157914

Easy-chair memories and rambling notes by The Amateur Angler (E. Marston)

Except for use in any review, the reproduction or utilisation of this work in whole or in part in any form by any electronic, mechanical or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including xerography, photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, is forbidden without the permission of the publisher, Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd, PO Box 1576 Collingwood, Victoria 3066 Australia.

All rights reserved.

Edited by Trieste Publishing Pty Ltd. Cover @ 2017

This book is sold subject to the condition that it shall not, by way of trade or otherwise, be lent, re-sold, hired out, or otherwise circulated without the publisher's prior consent in any form or binding or cover other than that in which it is published and without a similar condition including this condition being imposed on the subsequent purchaser.

www.triestepublishing.com

THE AMATEUR ANGLER (E. MARSTON)

EASY-CHAIR MEMORIES AND RAMBLING NOTES

Easy-Chair Memories

and

Rambling Notes

By

The Amateur Angler (E. Marston, F.R.G.S.)

Author of "Thomas Ken and Izaak Walton," "After Work," "An Old Man's Holidays," &c., &c., &c.

> "A little nonsense now and then Is relished by the best of men."

London. Sampson Low, Marston & Co. Ltd. IQII

Printed by BALLANTYNE, HANSON & Co. At the Ballantyne Press, Edinburgh

PREFACE

My angling days are over. The May fly imitation, which goes by the name of "The Rosebery," and which caught my last twopound trout, hangs still as a trophy on the forefront of my old cap (still in wear), where I had fixed him after he had done that doughty deed. That trout, judged by his lanky length, ought to have weighed nearer four pounds than two. He must have seen his best days long before he took that last and fatal leap. His will was as good, and he was perhaps hungrier than he ever had been, but his power of resistance had departed, he came to grass, almost without a struggle. Like that old trout, I, his captor, have seen the last of my best and fishing days. I can only now live over again in memory the happy days spent with many friends by many a riverside. If the flesh is weak the spirit is still alive, and that has led me, perhaps unwisely, to put together the accompanying Memories.

It may truly be said that my readers hitherto have not been limited to the angling class; they know too much already to accept me as an instructor in their art, and indeed I have always regarded ignorance of the true science of angling as my chief merit. The contents of the present volume are sufficiently miscellaneous to support that statement, and to confirm the impression which I have always, and very successfully tried to convey, that I am but a mere

AMATEUR ANGLER.

June 1911+

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

IN SEARCH OF REST AND QUIET, 1904
In a quiet corner—Extensive views—The Golden Valley—Motor accident to a royal Duke—A jolly young farmer "half seas over"—Churchyard of a healthful parish—My headquarters—A perfect Arcadia—Disillusion—A disreputable old woman —Salmon in the Wye—My first fishing—Small adventures by the river. Fire: A terrible thing has happened—Fine old	AGE mansion said to be afire—I visit the scene—Man- sion safe—French barn blazing—A grand sight, Over the Black Mountains: Llanthony Abbey— Descent from the mountains—Narrow lane— Meet wagonette coming up—Driver won't go back—We couldn't—Awkward dilemma—Father Ignatius and his new monastery—Return over the mountain by starlight.	्रा
CHAPTER II

FISHING IN THE WYE, THE LUGG, AND THE TEME

Fishing in the Lugg—Two rods and three girls, Margerie, Minnie, and Molly—88 degrees in the shade—What then in the sun?—Molly caught a trout—Great excitement—Two rods crestfallen—Lord Roberts—Visit to Ludlow—Fishing in the Teme

27

CHAPTER III

	the second
ECX !	MERCI	115	1903
*	$\kappa_{\lambda} \sim \sim$		41000

EXMOOR, 1903
	FAG
Exmoor—" Jack Russell"—Rev. Joseph Jekyll—The Barle—Torr Steps to Lanacre Bridge—The Doone Valley—Andrie Doon claims descent from Carver Doone—Anecdote of Jack Froude and Henry of
Exeter	3
CHAPTER IV
SOME JUNE DAYS ON THE CHESS, 1908
June days on the Chess—Big trout flopping about— Great expectations—The master says, "Don't be too sanguine!"—We tried thom—We fished up and down—No result—"What fools you two- legged creatures are!"—I threw a stone at him in a rage—A record fish—The May fly—An old- fashioned Chess trout—"The Rosebery" per- forms wonders—A flabby two-pounder—Grasp your nettle	4
OUR WHITSUN HOLIDAY ON THE ITCHEN, 1907
The House that Jack built—The Old Man—New style of waders—The Itchen revisited—The beauties of Nature unappreciated—"Wickham's Fancy" preferred by trout—Some "psychic" moments— The keeper—Trouble in the river—My Lady Piscatrix unfortunate—A beautiful trout on the hook in full play—"Come away—time is up"— Big trout lost	55
	100